

The COVID-19 pandemic crisis will create unique challenges for both students and faculty during the 2020-21 academic year. To maintain compliance with public health guidelines and risk mitigation strategy, students may need to be absent from class for prolonged periods owing to circumstances out of their control. The UFC encourages faculty to be mindful of these unique challenges as they craft their class attendance policies and articulate them in their course syllabi.